Look Out, Law Of Gravitation!

The human mind is a fearful and a wonderful thing. Never is it either so fearful or so wonderful as when it is seized with the idea that it has become possessed of some one, single key that unlocks all knowledge, and by which all knowledge is to be measured, weighed, and judged.

Probably the beginning of scientific knowledge is in the realization that there isn't any such single key. In the field of science, there is no Communist truth, no Capitalist truth, no Socialist truth—there is truth, and there she stands until somebody comes along and proves her an impostor.

That is why the best one can do is a sad smile on reading that a grave manifesto of 24 students of the Soviet Timiryazeff Agricultural Academy has been dignified by publication of the official journal of the Commissariat of Agriculture. In it they stoutly maintained that the Mendelian laws, commonly accepted throughout the world as the basis of genetics, are "contrary to Marxian theory," and therefore must be "chased from the universities."

Now it is all too possible that the theories evolved by the old Austrian monk, Gregor Mendel, as he bent over his beloved flower beds in his monastic garden, may at length prove to be untrue. Or perhaps further laborious experiment may add to them or change them. Scientific truth has a way like that—it never seems final. But when that time comes, it will not happen because Mendel's theories are believed "contrary to Marxian theory."

A great steel bridge collapses, because it has violated universal laws of stresses and strains, or because of inner defects of its steel, but not because it conflicts with a pet political theory. Hitler, too, has a universal law by which he wishes all truth to be measured, but gravity pulls things down in Germany as in Kamchatka, with a fine disregard for all the Goebbelses and Rosenbergs.

Maybe the enthusiastic Soviet sophomores are right; perhaps old Gregor Mendel is outmoded. But if he is, it will be because we will have learned more about genetics than we used to know, and not because his theories conflicted with Marxism.

Totalitarianism? It can rule men. But it cannot in the long run rule the truth. Truth is a stubborn thing.

Voltaire said that he who seeks truth should be of no country. Had Voltaire lived today, he might have added: "... and he should be of no cure-all, one-shot philosophy, either!"

One often wonders why fellows choose the U. S. Naval Academy in preference to college—until the annual look at that June Week color girl.

One movie studio is going to produce a picture on the thrills of the public health service. They're looking for a microbe to play the villain.

Congress turned down Admiral Byrd's request for another Antarctic expedition. With the civilized world at its present state, they may have been afraid he'd like it well enough to stay there.

Automobile purse-snatchers, who seize their booty on the fly, have been operating in Omaha. The guy who hooks the purse with the most dough probably gets to drive the next day.

Savages Keep Calm

Primitive peoples today seem to take easily to the miracles of the white man's science. It is his ordinary tools and accomplishments that astound the savage mind. Once upon a time we were told about the panic which seized the Aztec armies at the sight of Cortez's horses.

The Iroquois fighting men according to the New York Sun, thought it was lightning and thunder that came out of Samuel de Champlain's musket. But very likely the Aztecs and the Iroquois were chiefly impressed by the practical results of the white man's firearms and not by the wonder of the thing.

The airplane and the motion picture have been readily accepted in the heart of the Congo and at the Arctic Circle. The wonder is no greater than that aroused by the European penknife or fountain pen.

African tribesmen are probably no more impressed by the white man's wireless than the white man by the African drum-signal system of telegraphy.

Books As Ambassadors

For the first time, citizens of three great South American countries will see a comprehensive exhibit of books printed and published in the United States. During the summer, at Buenos Aires, Argentina, at Montevideo, Uruguay, and at Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, 2,500 books from 32 co-operating American publishers will be shown.

Better than bullets, better than bombing planes, is this exhibit of the cultural life of America. For unfortunately, many South Americans still have a belief, carefully cultivated by the European propagandists, that the United States is a barren desert of hustle and bustle, of cocktails and crooners, of greed and gangsters, quite without any appreciation of the life of the mind and spirit. Your educated South American is apt to feel a fine contempt for the "Yankee barbarian."

Thus our books can serve as amiable ambassadors, and as an introduction to that greater exchange of the printed word which is so desirable between the Americas.

The Smithsonian Institution named a new species of starfish after FDR—"ophionereis roosevelti." The president might be honored if he could only be sure about it.

Baseball men forgot to commemorate one of the game's most prominent incidents at Cooperstown, N. Y. They didn't give a bottle shower for the umpires.

So They Say

If everyday men and women will not work for themselves and for democracy, it is obvious that another form of government will eventually replace what we have now—Samuel Vaucrain, chairman of the board of the Baldwin Locomotive Works.

The most wonderful thing I have seen in this country is not the New York Fair or New York, but the spirit of democracy which is everywhere.—Istvan Katona, Budapest newspaperman covering Cleveland convention of Rotary International.

Nations at the World's Fair exhibit their fruits of peace rather than their bombs and poison gas and samples of their concentration camps. They are not really proud of those things.—Henry Ford, at the New York World's Fair.

I got mad and realized that because of the baby I couldn't go out like other girls.—Mrs. Velma Fink, 22, Ohio divorcee, explaining why she killed her 10-week-old baby.

Prof. L. H. Billups, of George R. Smith college, will speak at the dedication of the new M. E. church at Fort Scott, Kas., tonight. He will be absent several days, traveling through Kansas in the interest of the college.

A new electric motor, 150 horsepower, was received today for the Sedalia Planning Mill company.

A special train of ten coaches, one baggage car and engine No. 267, with Engineer Battersby in the cab and Conductor John Bowers in charge of the train, left here this morning with 750 excursionists bound for Fairmount park, near Kansas City.

At the city council meeting Wednesday night, the supply committee was instructed to purchase three dark lanterns, operated by electricity, for the police.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON—Inside information from the SEC indicates that the love feast between the Commission and the New York Stock Exchange is bogging down sadly.

One innovation initiated by the new management of the Exchange last year was the appointment of Robert M. Hutchins, dynamic young president of the University of Chicago, as a "representative of the public" on the Board of Governors.

The move won the Exchange much kudos but it proved to be a short-lived reform.

At his first board meeting Hutchins clashed head-on with the other governors on his demand that disciplinary action be taken against the Morgan partners and other Wall Street tycoons involved in the Richard Whitney scandal. Vetoed on this, Hutchins promptly resigned.

Now the final chapter has been written. After more than six months of deliberations, a new "representative of the public" was finally selected in the person of Curtis E. Calder, millionaire head of the American and Foreign Power Company and director of a score of big banks, investment and utility corporations.

Calder's appointment is the second significant Exchange development in recent weeks. Last month the powerful committee on member firms, which deals directly with the Security and Exchange Commission, quietly ousted the friends of the SEC and replaced them with Old Guard insiders.

Battered Machine
Leon Henderson, new SEC Commissioner, received a mysterious package in the mail. Postmarked New York, it looked suspiciously like a bomb. He opened it cautiously and out fell a second-hand stock ticker.

It was sent by an old college friend, Donald Morgan, now a Wall Street broker. There was also a letter, in mildly caustic vein:

"You will note," Morgan wrote, "that the machine is in pretty bad shape. We are told that most of this deterioration has occurred since 1933. Several monkey-wrenches have been dropped into it from time to time and these mishaps account for some of the bad scars. In its hard service during the Twenties the high numbers were worn out and nothing but low ones come out of it any more."

She Canned Lobbyists
Two smartly attired canning lobbyists who called on Mrs. Mary Norton, chairman of the House Labor Committee, are still shivering from their sub-zero reception.

The plump New Jersey Congresswoman usually is good-natured and friendly, but she hit the ceiling when one of the lobbyists launched into a tearful harangue on the "desperate" financial condition of canners as a result of the Wage-Hour law.

"Come down to cases," she interrupted. "If you are trying to sell me on a scheme to exempt canners from the act, you are wasting your time and mine."

"Please don't take that attitude, Mrs. Norton," pleaded the other lobbyist, "we are only trying to obtain some relief for our hard-hit industry."

"Oh, so it's relief you want," snapped Mrs. Norton. "Well, judging from the Park Avenue clothes you two are wearing, I wouldn't say that the canners who hired you are in very bad shape financially. You can tell them for me that if they applied your fat salaries to decent wages for their employees, they'd have no reason to fight the law. Good day!"

Fresh Fruits, Now In Season, Are Important Element in Diet

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygieia, the Health Magazine.

At this season of the year fresh fruits are available in most markets at reasonable prices. Fruits are exceedingly valuable in the diet because they are among the richest sources of vitamin C and are also quite rich in pro-vitamin A or carotene. The fruits which are richest in vitamin C are the oranges, lemons, grapefruit and limes, and those which are yellow colored are also the ones which are most rich in pro-vitamin A.

Fruits also provide some sugar varying from 3 to 18 per cent but they do not provide much in the way of fat except for olives and avocado pears. These are exceedingly rich in fat. Few people realize what they provide in the way of calories. Olives give 30 calories per ounce; half an alligator pear will provide from 300 to 500 calories.

The fuel value of fruits is usually low because of the large amount of material taken in relationship to the sugar content. Bananas give about as many calories as an ounce as fish, but most fruits contain so much water that the fuel value may be ignored. For that reason fruits play an important part in the diet. Fruit gives bulk without caloric content. Dried fruits, of course, get rid of the water and thus provide calories in considerable amounts at a low cost.

Canned fruits vary greatly in the amount of sugar that they contain, and anyone who is planning to use canned fruits as a part of the diet has to know the percentage of carbohydrate. Nowadays, however, many fruits are being canned without added sugar so that it is possible to figure the diet on the basis of the fresh fruit.

When fruits are cooked, the fibrous material which the fruit contains becomes softened. This makes the fruits more digestible. However, fruits are in general quite digestible, the ease of digestion depending on the nature of the fruit and its degree of ripeness. Everyone knows that a ripe apple is digested with reasonable ease but a green apple may take much longer.

One of the questions most frequently raised nowadays is the question of eating fruits which may have been sprayed with toxic materials to prevent infestation by parasites. Under the laws of vari-

5. Is it necessary to send post cards to all of your friends when you go away for a two week's vacation?

What would you do if—

A friend has a good-bye party for you just before you leave on your vacation. Would you—

(a) Write her a post card thanking her for the party?

(b) Write her a note thanking her for the party and telling her something of what you are doing?

(c) Consider your spoken thanks adequate?

ous states fruit growers and packers are supposed to wash fruit to remove dangerous quantities of these substances. Special washing solutions have been devised which tend to invalidate the toxic substances which have been left on the fruit.

Furthermore, it is advisable for people to wash fruit before eating in order to make certain that any contaminations are removed from the surface.

An estimate of the food value of fruits is conveyed by the fact that an apple will provide 100 calories; three plums or three prunes will give 100 calories, and a two-inch slice of watermelon will give 100 calories; a whole orange will provide 100 calories, but it also takes a whole cantaloupe to provide 100 calories. For this reason a slice of cantaloupe, which is very filling, is a good substance in a reducing diet.

Approximately 30,000 persons are killed, one million injured, and about two billion dollars' worth of property damaged or destroyed upon American highways annually.

SERIAL STORY

BRIDE ON A BUDGET

BY JANET DORAN

COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday, Iris can't cook. Bart finds out. So they dine out regularly while Bart's money dwindles. They are right and left for other things. But Bart feels sure Iris will settle down soon.

CHAPTER IV

It was Bart himself who brought home the little budget book, a month later. After spending rather a bad hour with his accounts and figures. After discovering that two could not only not live as cheaply as one, but instead, could not, apparently, live for three times what it cost one. After the cold figures told him that he had spent at the rate of $25 or better a week for food alone, for the two of them!

In the bathroom, a high sweet contralto sang happily. Obviously his little wife was having herself a tub and shower. And on the bed was spread a billowing concoction of pale green organdie flounces, with a deep, leaf green satin sash, and a big floppy milan hat of green straw. On the rug stood two diminutive size AAAA white kid sandals.

They were dining out. They were dining and dancing out. Again.

Bart sat down heavily in the chintz and Chinese grass rush chair by the open window. Then Iris came out, trailing her pale blue chenille robe about her, her ivory shoulders bare and glowing, rising above the robe caught together carelessly, her slender legs and thighs peeking in and out as she hurried to find fresh lingerie, stockings, powder and make-up.

"Hurry, Bart darling," was her slightly absent greeting, when she noticed him sitting there by the window. "We'll be late if you don't. You'll have to get a bath and dress. Or had you forgotten we're dining with the Kents?"

HE had forgotten. Completely. So engrossed had he been in the budget book, so lost in the wild hope of curbing their extravagant mode of living to a scale he could encompass, the memory of Ellen and John Kent's invitation to dine with them at the new Bay-shore Plaza, and then go to the new play the Guild was putting on, had completely slipped his mind.

He laid out his shaving kit and turned the hot water on in the tub. Rubbing the shaving lather over his face, he watched Iris in the mirror over the wash-bowl, that reflected squarely the entire wall of the bedroom beyond, where she sat at the vanity mirror.

"We're eating at home tomorrow, honey," Bart said casually, cutting a neat lane through the drift of lather and faint stubble, "I've got a surprise for you."

"Oh Bart, not company!" Iris exclaimed petulantly. "When you know how much I have to do at the office, and all this besides."

Bart grinned silently at the "all this." He did more than half the housework around the little apartment, and thus far, they'd eaten most of their meals out. Still Iris took her home-making seriously.

"No, not company, honey. Just a book. It tells all about budgets and menus and buying and planning meals. So we can begin to save a little."

"It costs almost as much to live at home, Bart, as it does to dine out," Iris argued, "with prices the way they are."

"You don't see any restaurant men going broke do you, Iris? No, and you won't. And this book tells how we can eat like kings on a third of what it's costing us now. Better food, home cooked, and at a third the cost."

Iris said nothing. But the tiny line between her wide violet eyes was warning that she was thinking intently.

ALL that evening, Iris was the life of the party. She flirted with staid John Kent when she danced with him, and teased Bart constantly. She kept them all in gales of merriment. She had such a grand time herself it was a shock to discover it was time to go on to the play. And then all at once it was 11, and they were home again, and yawning sleepily to bed.

Next day, Bart managed to shut up shop directly after 5. He pulled the curtains as soon as the whistles blew, and didn't answer knocks on the door as he made everything fast for the night. But Iris was home ahead of him. Iris, clad in a faded pink check gingham gown with a ragged tear in one puffed sleeve and a tea towel pinned bewitchingly about her blond curls, Iris, bending over the stove, hurrying to and fro, studying a cookbook. Cooking dinner.

The bedroom was in order, the living room neat, and the table set. And a pot-roast simmered in the oven in an iron kettle, and vegetables steamed in the rich brown juices. On the window-ledge an apple pie cooled, and she was deep in a bran muffin recipe when he came in.

"Hi, wife of my bosom," she greeted her fervently. She flung him a worried, absent glance and wiped her damp forehead on the ragged sleeve.

"Hello, Bart," Iris answered wanly.

That was the beginning. When the meal was on the table, Iris wasn't hungry. She was too tired to eat. Too hot. There was too much to do.

"Besides, you want to economize, Bart, and you'll save what, ever I might eat."

He grinned, not taking it seriously. It was too silly, really, to take in any other light than as a joke. Only she didn't eat. And he did not guess she had had a sandwich and a glass of milk and small cupcake before starting her culinary preparations.

After dinner, when all efforts to coax her into eating some of the really good dinner failed, Bart tried to make her lie down and rest a bit.

"It's this heat, honey; you over did. You shouldn't try to do everything at once, weather like this."

"As if that mattered, so long as you can save a little, Bart!" Iris muttered petulantly.

BART's slow, quiet wrath simmered slowly at that, but he said nothing. And Iris attacked the dishes with more temper than caution, smashing a fragile blue pie plate as it slid to the floor, crashing against the gas stove.

Bart picked up the pieces silently. And when the dishes were done, and Iris took the vacuum cleaner and dust cloth and began thoroughly cleaning the living room, his wrath began to pass the temper stage.

"Look, Iris, this room looks all right. You're tired, why don't you quit and rest, now?"

"This place is a pig pen," she stated shortly, "and work has to be done. Your precious budget book said nothing about that, Bart Whitaker. It was concerned only with pennies, not persons!"

Bart went into the bedroom, taking the evening paper, and lay down on the bed to read it. But the sound of her energetic cleaning, the whisk of the brush on the cushions, the roar of the electric cleaner, distracted him. Until 10:30, Iris worked at her cleaning. She washed the windows, she cleaned the paint, she wiped the floor around the rug, and she polished the furniture.

Then, spent, weary, she crept into bed to sleep instantly, while her puzzled young husband lay wide awake, trying to figure out this newest angle. This married strike against economy and budgeting. This act that he did not recognize as an act, nor guess was a role played with the gusto and enthusiasm of sheer relish.

Roosts In Open During Summer

When turkeys no longer need heat and the protection of a house they should be moved to clean range and provided with roosts in the open, says E. M. Funk, of the Missouri College of Agriculture.

An acre of good clover or alfalfa will provide room for 100 birds from 10 weeks old until they are ready to be marketed. If the acre can be divided into two plots, so that the turkeys can be kept on each lot for two weeks at one time, better results can be obtained.

Roosts should be four inches wide, and placed five to six feet above the ground. Wire should be placed under the roosts and around the sides, so the turkeys cannot get to the droppings. Turkey growers use lanterns and flares at night to good advantage in keeping predatory animals from the flocks.

Shade is essential during the summer months. Shade provided by growing crops or trees is most desirable, but if these are not available, artificial shade should be provided. During hot weather turkeys grow slowly, and good shade where they may rest and get fresh water and feed will stimulate growth.

Well balanced rations in hoppers should be kept before the turkeys at all times. Both mash and grain should be kept so that the birds can consume what they want. A good growing mash is one made up of 100 pounds of yellow corn meal, 70 of bran or ground oats, 100 of shorts or ground wheat, 30 of alfalfa leaf meal, 60 of meat scrap, 20 of dried milk, and four pounds of salt.

Recent experiments show that grasshoppers are good feed for turkeys. They are very largely protein, however, and the turkeys should have their regular rations before them, even though they may be on range where there are considerable number of grasshoppers.

Granite or other hard grit should be kept before the turkeys.

One Year To Go Presidential Possibilities

No. 2—John N. Garner

"When you see John Garner you know why they call him 'Cactus Jack.'" By BRUCE CATTON NEA Washington Correspondent

THE first time you look at Vice President John Nance Garner, you understand why he is called "Cactus Jack." His face is brick red, his eyebrows are dazzling white, his eyes squint out cannily from beneath them. No man ever looked more like a Texas plainsman than Garner.

Garner is getting on—70, or thereabouts—but the years aren't telling on him much. He lies low, wisely ducks the dining out and social whirl of the capital, and keeps his health. He is a veteran of veterans; served 30 consecutive years in the House of Representatives, winding up as speaker, and was elected vice president in 1932. He is one of the three or four vice presidents in American history who have been politically important in that office.

Now, rated (by ardent New Dealers) as a conservative, Garner for years was known as a good deal of a liberal. When Hoover lost control of Congress after two years in the White House, Garner was the Number One thorn in his side. It is worth remembering that in the 1932 campaign the Democratic high command wanted Garner to make few speeches—felt he was "too radical," might scare some Roosevelt followers back to Hoover.

Garner has great popularity in the House and Senate—and, for that matter, with practically everyone who knows him. He is supposed to have broken with Roosevelt, but the break has never been open and, in the main, Garner has played ball with the White House fairly well since his election. He is fond of calling Roosevelt "my boss."

HIS ASSETS: Party leaders like him. Conservatives are tending to rally behind him. Most of the Democrats who have fallen out with Roosevelt would support Garner. He knows politics from A to Z and is a shrewd campaigner.

HIS LIABILITIES: Roosevelt probably wouldn't support him (though this is not dead certain). He wouldn't appeal to the labor or northern Negro vote. In general, the New Deal crowd would oppose him to the end.

HIS CHANCES: For the nomination, good.

Says Robins Don't Like Foreign Wars

BERKELEY, Calif., June 22.—(P)—Robins have a "home defense" policy, and never go in for foreign aggression, Dr. David Lack, British bird expert, told the American Ornithologists Union.

Experimenting with the British robin, much smaller than the American variety, Dr. Lack found that each bird "owned" about an acre in which it would attack other birds. Normally the defending robin is victorious.

Judge Addresses The 'Boy's State'

FULTON, Mo., June 22.—(P)—Missouri's "young statesmen" set up a mock state government today and tried to acquire the "feel" of holding public office.

Tomorrow the boys attending the American Legion-sponsored boys' state will go to Jefferson City to make first-hand observations of the workings of the actual state government.

State Supreme Court Judge James M. Douglas addressed the camp last night, emphasizing the importance of keeping all courts "free from political control." He commended the boys' state idea and praised the youths for their eagerness to learn how a government functions.

Judge Douglas then administered the oath of office to each successful candidate in the "election."

Stephen Taylor Boggs was elected governor of the state. The Webster Groves youth, running on the Nationalist ticket, defeated James Bond of Kansas City, Federalist candidate, 236 votes to 89.

The Boggs' landslide carried all other Nationalist candidates into office with four exceptions.

Salesman Is Caught Soon After Flight

Bateman, Charged With Assault, Gets Away From Hospital

PINEVILLE, Mo., June 22.—(P)—Dr. B. C. Bateman, wounded in a gun battle near Ava, Mo., fled the Fayetteville, Ark., Veterans' hospital Wednesday, but was captured without resistance three hours later.

Bateman, accused of assault with intent to kill Everett Estes of Van Zant, Mo., was arrested at Lanagan, Mo.

Trooper W. E. Grammer of the state highway patrol, said the Poplar Bluff, Mo., spectacles salesman was hitch-hiking. He had been seen in the car, Grammer said, and the number of the machine was broadcast. Grammer would not disclose the name of the driver.

Rearranged Departure
Dr. Frank H. Gordon, manager of the Fayetteville hospital, said Bateman's departure apparently had been prearranged. He said an auto drove up to the entrance of one of the hospital buildings and Bateman entered it.

Lanagan, where Bateman was arrested, is five miles west of here, at the junction of U. S. highway 71 and state route 88.

Bateman was charged with assault with a deadly weapon after exchanging shots with Estes early in the morning of June 15 at Gentryville, 20 miles east of Ava, Mo.

He said at the time his wife had been kidnapped, but Mrs. Bateman later said she had left their car because he had been drinking.

Estes shot Bateman in the leg with a shotgun but was exonerated by Prosecutor Willis H. Mitchell of Douglas county, who said he shot in self defense. Bateman had a .22 rifle.

Sheriff Lincoln Barnes said at Ava he was going to Pineville to take Bateman there. Bateman was held in the county jail here.

Grammer, who made the arrest with Trooper Paul Hardy, said Bateman would not talk much and would not say where he was going.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

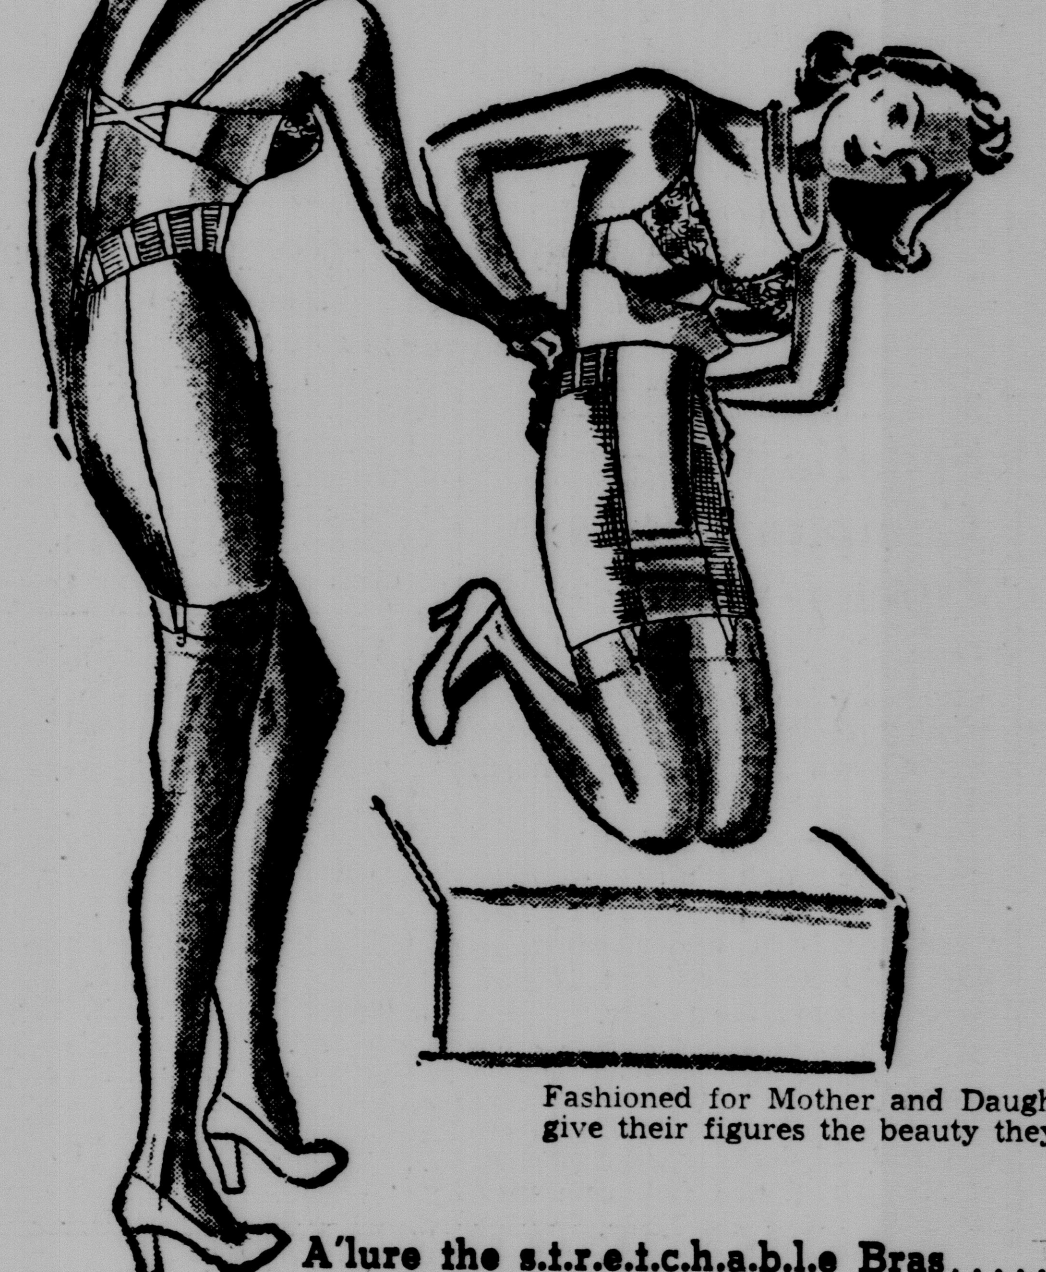

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning! The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sick, run down and the world looks punk. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. 25 cents. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

A Pitchers' Battle For Tonight

Eldorado Springs To Meet Merchants With Turk vs. Schrick

The Sedalia Merchants tonight will play the Eldorado Springs baseball club under the lights at the Liberty Park diamond. The game will be called at 8:15 o'clock.

Pitching for the visiting club will be Turk, a well known hurler in Sedalia. During the Athletic days, and during the time when Rella Maples was managing the Sedalia ball club, Turk was a member of the local pitching staff.

He has worked with any number of strong semi-pro clubs in Missouri and still carries plenty in "that old arm" which might mean trouble for his former home club.

Al Schrick will be on the mound for Sedalia, and with the "school teacher" handling the mound work for the Merchants, the local baseball fans can expect to witness another pitcher's battle such as was seen a week ago. Overfelt will catch for the locals.

The remaining lineup will be: Walker, shortstop; Taylor third base; Barnes second base; Livenwood first base; Zey right field; Slayton centerfield; Carver left field. Sullivan and Blaine are held in reserve for pitching duties.

Golden Gloves Aspirants To Fight Friday

Young Boxers Of Henry County Battle In First Amateur Bout

In Windsor Friday night the newly organized Athletic club, which is sponsored by the Lions club of that place, will present the first amateur boxing show of the season. Several good bouts have been arranged and among them will be a couple of exhibition bouts by Sedalia Democrat-Capital Golden Glove boxers.

Following the 1939 Golden Glove tournament in Sedalia, several Windsor boys displayed much interest in the sport of boxing and through the efforts of several Windsor business men the forming of a club was started. To date there are several boys training and there appears to be some good material for this winter's activities.

Jimmy Cordroy is handling the youngsters at Windsor for the club. Cordroy has had considerable ring experience and knows what it is all about. He will be a great help to these youngsters who sign up with the Windsor club and start their training. No doubt the early start in training means the Henry county club expects to do some "upsetting" in the tournament to be held here this winter.

Cordroy is working with Norman Lovan, a young man with considerable past professional experience, and Clarence Carter. The three are spending much time with the boys and already have obtained exceptionally good results with the boxers.

Denver Miller, flyweight champion, Dean Murray, bantamweight champion, and Johnny Williams, flyweight boxer, accompanied by the two "skeeter" weight champions, "Battling" Harms and his running mate "Swede" Olsen, will make the trip to Windsor. Another boxer from the local club is being sought to make the trip to help the Windsor club along. Boys desiring to make the trip are requested to contact the Sports Department at The Democrat.

Sedalia Drug Company Store Opens Today

Today the Sedalia Drug Company Store is celebrating its grand opening at the new location, 122 South Ohio, just one door north of the former store.

This is one of Sedalia's most up-to-date and modern drug store and soda fountain. The new store has been under construction since February and is now ready to serve the public.

Howard Robinson, owner of the building, which also has four modern apartments on the second and third floors, is a partner of McFarland and Robinson drug store at 104 West Main, which operates the Sedalia Drug Store.

The store has been rebuilt throughout. The front has been finished in black marlite and has large display windows. Installed for the opening is a big new liquid carbonic fountain, one of the most modern in Sedalia.

The personnel is Miss Margaret Meyers, Waldo Bardwell, Tommy Schaeffer, Billy Falconer and "Herman," the porter.

Mrs. Grover Cleveland received the first parcel post package in the United States.

Gehrig's Duties Practically A Rest Cure Now

Little Exercise Is To Be Taken By Famous Player

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK, June 22.—(P)—It's evident now that Lou Gehrig made the smartest decision of his life when he voluntarily removed himself from the Yankee lineup last May 2 and broke his amazing endurance record.

If he had stayed in there stubbornly and fought it out with his failing faculties, the great first baseman might by this time have been seriously injured or so far have undermined his health that recovery would have been hopeless.

As it is, there seems reason to believe that the treatment prescribed by Mayo Clinic specialists will arrest the infantile paralysis that has afflicted Lou and enable him to enjoy a moderately active life on the riches he has accumulated from baseball.

Had he continued to play, Gehrig sooner or later would have been hurt. It was plain this spring that his reflexes had slowed alarmingly. Ball after ball went down the line between him and first base, balls he would in other years have easily snagged.

But the real danger was at the plate, where the fast pitches were zipping past his head. A man needs to duck almost instinctively when a fireball comes straight for the scalp. Inevitably one of them would have lumped Gehrig insensibly on the grass. Perhaps Lou sensed his danger, though he says he hadn't the faintest idea there was anything seriously wrong with his mechanism until the doctors handed him their report at Rochester.

Take Little Exercise
"If I had known I would have been out there a long time ago, believe me," he said as he sprawled on the Yankee bench a few minutes after President Ed Barrow had announced the bad news.

He said he hadn't been told what sort of treatment he would take, whether it would be external, internal or by injection.

"All I'm supposed to do is report to my doctor here regularly and not take much exercise," he explained.

Lou's present duties as field captain of the Yankees practically amount to a rest cure. All he needs to do is put on his uniform daily and present the Yankee batting order to the umpire just before the game starts. He is privileged to charge out and argue with the arbiters on a close decision now and then, but he probably will do less of that from now on.

Outwardly, Lou shows no signs of the disease. In fact, he looks exceptionally healthy and his moving-picture grin is handsome as ever.

The Sport Roundup

By Eddie Brietz
NEW YORK, June 22.—(P)—The coast is rumoring that Slip Madigan is getting ready to step out of the St. Mary's football picture. . . . poor Lou Gehrig—no wonder the fellow was slowing up. . . . it was Sam Snead's fan mail that caused him to pass up the British open for the P. G. A. Sam received hundreds of letters telling him not to let that big eight at hilly get him down. . . . The situation at Washington is so acute, Clark Griffith has personally gone on a scouting trip. . . . Mary Galento and Marva Louis will discuss their huddles on the air Saturday.

Success Story
George Weiss, head of the far-flung Yankee farm system, will be 44 tomorrow. . . . George well remembers his first dealings with the New York club. . . . Back in 1928 he led the New Haven Colonials into town for an exhibition with the Yanks. . . . the paid turn-out was 157. . . . New Haven's share of the gate was $10.45.

Wheat Drops A Cent A Bushel
CHICAGO, June 22.—(AP)—Wheat values tumbled another cent a bushel today to the lowest level in two months.

Establishment of new lows for the movement of new crop wheat to terminals in the southwest and prospects of better harvest weather were factors that encouraged continuation of the selling that has caused the sharp wheat market break of the last few weeks.

Wheat closed 1/4 to 1 1/2 cent lower than yesterday, July 68 1/2c to 68 3/4c, September 69 1/2c to 69 3/4c; corn 1 to 1 1/2 cent down, July 47 1/2c to 47 3/4c, September 49 1/2c to 49 3/4c; oats 1/2 to 3/4 cent lower, July 34 1/2c to 34 3/4c, September 36 1/2c to 36 3/4c; rye, wheat, had shown some recovery power.

Mild Comeback On Stock Market
NEW YORK, June 22.—(AP)—The stock market responded rather heartily today to a fair batch of "good" news items which tended to offset renewed tension over Far Eastern affairs.

A slow decline in the forenoon put leaders down fractions to around a point. A mild comeback got under way near the final hour when the boardrooms learned of the President's long-range lending program involving $3,000,000,000 under various classifications of self-liquidating non-federal projects. An outlay of $570,000,000 in the 1940 fiscal year was suggested.

Wreck Program Of O'Daniel

AUSTIN, Tex., June 22.—(AP)—W. Lee O'Daniel, flour salesman who rode to the Texas governorship on hill billy music and a promise of $330-a-month pensions to all Texans over 65 years of age, found his legislative program a mass of wreckage today.

The Legislature quit without voting a cent of new taxes to support expanded pensions despite previous action opening the doors to 50,000 or more additional beneficiaries.

After the legislators abandoned O'Daniel's drastic 1.6 percent transactions tax recommendation, the governor advocated a Senate amendment which would have submitted to the people a 2 percent sales and service tax plus a 25 percent increase in levies on oil, gas and sulphur.

The proposal repeatedly failed to reach the necessary two-thirds majority in the House of Representatives.

The lawmakers granted his plea for acquisition of a huge acreage in mountainous west Texas for state park purposes.

His policy of economy was observed only in that departmental appropriations were slashed, although growing school enrollments boosted over-all tax money spending.

Beyond that, the governor's recommendations were rejected.

Break In Rainy Spell Is Indicated

ST. LOUIS, June 22.—(AP)—A break in the rainy spell which was beginning to worry farmers in some sections of Missouri was indicated in today's report by government weather observers.

Fair weather had returned to most of the state, with showers forecast only for the southeast portion. That section escaped most of the heavy rain of the past three days.

Fairly heavy showers fell again yesterday in other localities. Precipitation measured .72 of an inch at Unionville, Maryville, .79; Jefferson City .68; Kansas City .58; Hannibal .26; Springfield .35; Chillicothe .37; Macon .18; St. Louis .19.

Somewhat higher temperatures are expected Friday.

Truck Crashes In Buggy Killing Driver

EXCELSIOR SPRINGS, Mo., June 22.—(AP)—The crash of a truck into the rear of a buggy killed James Richards, 70, and injured G. L. Meyers, 13, who was riding with him. The driver of the truck said he was blinded by approaching lights and the Richards buggy was unlighted. The accident occurred on Highway 59 at the edge of town last night.

They were convicted on one count and found innocent on nine others by a jury late yesterday. The count that brought their conviction accused them of illegal solicitation of a federal housing administration loan through correspondence to Atchison, Kas.

Muddy, Sallow Broken-Out Skin?

Many Never Know Why—But Reason May Be This

Many persons with pimples, and muddy, unhealthy looking skin go on being miserable when they might easily clear them up in a short time. Oftentimes slowed-down activity on the part of the stomach and bowels are at the bottom of these troubles. Food turns sour in stomach and bowels. Too many wastes and acids go into the blood and these poisons are one of the main causes that often make your skin break out, grow muddy and your eyes look dull, your breath bad and keep you tired and depressed.

Ask your druggist for Tanlac. Tanlac is made expressly to help tone up weak, sluggish stomach and bowels. It has been used successfully by millions for over 20 years. Get Tanlac today.

Texan Makes Demand That Wallace Quit

No Intention To Give Up His Job Secretary Says

WASHINGTON, June 22.—(AP)—A new demand for the resignation of Henry Wallace came Wednesday from J. E. McDonald, Texas commissioner of agriculture, shortly after the secretary of agriculture had informed reporters he had no intention of giving up his job.

McDonald summoned newspapermen to a press conference here and told them he "heartily agreed" with the action taken on Tuesday by the Wisconsin assembly in adopting a resolution asking Wallace to resign.

The Texan said Wallace had "thoroughly demonstrated his inability to solve the cotton problem," and added he should step out unless he could "recognize his failure and offer something better."

Wallace Turns Other Cheek

Almost simultaneously Wallace was answering reporters' questions concerning "recent Wisconsin developments."

"They should be very fruitful for the welfare of the country," the cabinet officer said. "Our enemies often times help us more than our friends do."

At the same press conference Wallace said that, despite recent reports to the contrary, the state and agriculture department were in accord over foreign trade policies. He asserted they were agreed that export subsidies were necessary to help the United States regain its "fair share" of world markets for major farm products.

Wallace made his statement because, he said, "numerous questions" had arisen in regard to the "relationship" between the state department's reciprocal trade agreements program and the agriculture department's current and proposed export subsidies.

Calls Program Failure

McDonald made public a telegram which Ralph W. Moore, master of the Texas state grange, sent to Wallace today in which he asserted the administration's "agricultural program has proven a colossal and tragic failure."

"May I," Moore wired, "in the interest of the American farmer, laborer and our nation, urge you to immediately resign."

McDonald said he agreed with Moore.

The Texan, an opponent of the administration's proposal to subsidize cotton exports, said he had been a supporter for six years of the domestic allotment plan. This would pay farmers parity prices for production up to the limits of their "fair share" of the domestic market, and leave them free to sell in the world market, at whatever prices they could get, products raised in excess of allotments.

Mr. Vaughn stated his son left Warrensburg early Wednesday en route to his home by the way of Sedalia. He reported the boy was riding a bicycle, and the last heard or seen of him was when he passed through here.

Anyone knowing of his whereabouts is requested to notify the local police.

jects as water works, sewage disposal plants, bridges and hospitals. The ceiling for this program, Mr. Roosevelt said, is $350,000,000 and the government would put out $150,000,000 in the first year — starting July 1. The program would last two years.

Second, under the bureau of public roads would be construction projects for post roads, toll roads, bridges, high speed highways, and city by-passes, with a four-year ceiling of $750,000,000 and an outlay of $150,000,000 in the 1940 fiscal year.

Third, railroad equipment projects. The president said he believed it would be better for the government to create an authority to lease equipment to the carriers, with the government retaining title to it. He proposed a $500,000,000 ceiling and the use of $100,000,000 in 1940.

Fourth, under the agriculture department, rural electrification would be expanded to reach at least 1,250,000 rural families, about 6,000,000 people, not now receiving electricity and not likely to in the near future. A seven year program with a $400,000,000 ceiling was suggested with an outlay of only $20,000,000 in 1940.

Fifth, under the farm security administration, expansion of the purchase of farms for tenant farmers with a $500,000,000 limit and loans of $250,000,000 in 1940.

Sixth, Foreign loans to promote American foreign trade were put down for $500,000,000 for two years with $200,000,000 going out in 1940.

Mr. Roosevelt explained proceeds of these loans would be spent in the United States and would be used for development and reconstruction purposes in the foreign country.

Reply To Byrnes Letter The president's letter to Byrnes was in reply to one in which Byrnes requested the president to advise him what effect transfer of money from WPA to PWA would have upon employment.

Mr. Roosevelt told reporters he thought the program he was outlining was a much better way of approaching the problem of work projects.

With reference to the earmarking of the $125,000,000, the president said in his letter:

"I am opposed to this provision. It simply means that 165,000 men who are badly in need of work will have to be dropped from the works progress administration rolls; men who in the great majority of cases are the sole support of families whose subsistence depends on this slender income."

Asserting he believed "there is a better way to accomplish the laudable purposes of this bill," the president added that a great majority of people realized there were types of public improvements which should be undertaken when there was a need for stimulating employment.

"At such times the federal government should furnish funds for projects of this kind at a low rate of interest," the president said, "it being clearly understood that the projects themselves shall be self-liquidating and of such a nature as to furnish a maximum of employment per dollar of investment."

"There's seems no reason why there should not be adopted as a permanent policy of the government the development and maintenance of a revolving fund fed from the earnings of these government investments and used to finance new projects at times when there is need of extra stimulus to employment."

Mr. Roosevelt explained he had canvassed government agencies to find out what projects met genuine public needs and would be under way quickly and would liquidate themselves.

He told reporters all the federal agencies had wanted to go much stronger than he had and that he had to use the blue pencil on them.

Mr. Roosevelt explained, too, that the self-liquidating projects would be financed by securities guaranteed by the government and issued by the agencies concerned, but with the cooperation of the treasury.

The relationship, he said, would be the same as now exists between the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and the treasury, so far as the mechanics of the lending is concerned.

Announcement of the new program climaxed several weeks of study by government experts on what could be done to stimulate business and employment. Yesterday Secretary Ickes advocated that the relief bill, pending before the senate appropriations committee, be amended to provide $500,000,000 for public works under the PWA.

Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the Democratic leader, said a lending program would involve very little new legislation.

Some administration fiscal advisers have proposed a lowering of interest rates, particularly on housing loans; removal of other limitations on various lending agencies, grants for self-liquidating projects, and creation of a federal corporation to build and lease equipment to railroads.

Opposition to liberalizing existing federal credit to stimulate business and industry has come not only from bankers, but from some RFC officials who have expressed doubt of its need.

municipal council, said "the prospects for a continued milk supply appear good, which is most important news for concession residents. The children and the sick heretofore had suffered because of the lack of milk."

Only 10 per cent of the normal meat supply was received today and only one-third of the fresh vegetables. Tables throughout the foreign areas lacked the greens particularly wanted because of the heat. Rice, beans and other staples were the foreigners' fare.

A Japanese embassy spokesman blamed the British for broadening the Tientsin dispute, precipitated by the British refusal to hand over four Chinese wanted by Japanese on charges of assassinating a Tientsin customs official.

He charged that the British spread propaganda to the effect that all third-power interests in China were involved in the Tientsin issue.

The establishment of a "new order in East Asia," he said, "does not necessarily mean the rights and interests of third powers will be driven out of China."

He indicated the British may be victims of special discriminatory treatment, stating that while in principle Japan would treat all foreigners alike "some Japanese individuals may act in a manner discriminatory to the British because they are aiding Chiang Kai-Shek."

Press For Strong Action LONDON, June 22—(P)—Laborites pressed the British government today in the House of Commons to take "strong action" to halt what Arthur Henderson termed "repeated acts of aggression."

Facing a barrage of questions on the Japanese blockade of the British and French concessions in Tientsin, Prime Minister Chamberlain refused to say more than that the government views the situation with "great concern" and was considering "what further steps should be taken" if negotiations should fail to settle the difficulties.

A government spokesman earlier declared that continuation of the Japanese blockade, now in its ninth day, "will obviously lead to counter measures."

Philip Noel Baker, another Laborite, asked the prime minister: "Is it not becoming increasingly clear that this is an aggressive attack on foreign rights in China and that this may become an attempt at x x x domination x x x?" Chamberlain answered: "I hope that may not prove to be the case. If it were true, it would be very serious."

The next question, put by Geoffrey Mander of the Liberal party, caused the speaker of the house to intervene and end further questioning.

"How many British subjects," Mander asked, "will have to be insulted, stripped and killed before the British government will do anything effective?"

The prime minister just previously announced that British women and children were being taken from the treaty port of Swatow where Japanese landed troops yesterday. (Dispatches from China said 20 women and children already had left Swatow.)

"Japanese naval authorities have promised to facilitate the evacuation and to respect British property," Chamberlain declared.

The government spokesman in his warning of the possibility of counter measures said, however, that the government still hoped the Japanese would agree to terminate the Tientsin dispute on a local basis.

ever its exact nature. Yarnell on his flagship, the cruiser Augusta, was at Chinwangtao, North China.

The United States destroyer Pillsbury, which remained during yesterday's Japanese occupation to protect 40 Americans at Swatow, still was in the inner harbor and was joined today by the destroyer Pope.

The British destroyer Scout also arrived and anchored in the outer harbor, supporting another British destroyer, the Thanet, which shared yesterday's watch with the Pillsbury.

The Pope brought Captain John T. G. Stapler, commander of the U. S. navy's South China patrol, who had been watching the situation at another Japanese-occupied point, Amoy, where the Japanese navy is blockading the international settlement of Julangsu.

The 20 British women and children sailed for Hongkong aboard two British merchantmen. The British colony had totalled 80.

The Japanese spokesman denied any time limit had been attached to the Swatow "warning" which was distributed yesterday to foreign consulates here. However, foreign officials said, it was not received until two hours after the Japanese had announced complete occupation of Swatow and cessation of hostilities there.

American naval reports said Swatow was quiet today.

one as an outright foe of the administration, and the other as a candidate with or without machine support. The latter, State Treasurer A. P. Tugwell, came out openly two hours before Leche acted.

Storm Clouds Gather Political storm clouds began gathering two weeks ago following publication by the New Orleans States of a story that a Louisiana State University truck, loaded with window shades made at the university, had brought them to a house being built by a close friend of Governor Leche.

Leche promptly called an open hearing in Baton Rouge. The hearing later was indefinitely postponed pending investigation of "other matters." Soon afterward the Shreveport Journal printed a syndicate article from Washington, in which Leche's name again was mentioned, which resulted in prompt announcement by State WPA Administrator J. H. Crutcher that an investigation had been begun on orders from Washington.

Crutcher said at that time that "if the evidence warrants, the charges will be prosecuted without delay in the United States courts." Paul Hansen, chief of the WPA investigating unit for five southern states, launched the inquiry yesterday.

Leche had been unavailable to newspapermen who vainly sought him all week. The announcement was his first public comment following the WPA administrator's action.

Not As Colorful As Huey The 41-year-old governor, who took office in 1936 as a compromise selection when former anti-social Long lieutenants threatened to quarrel among themselves over their candidacies, remained in his sickbed.

The incoming governor, two years younger than his brother now buried on the terraced lawn of the state capitol, lacks some of the colorful personality but none of Huey's spirit.

He is noted as a rough-and-tumble fighter, with more gift for the direct attack and less ability in oratorical debate than Huey Long, against whom he once turned in a public denunciation. Memories of his tirade still stir "Kingfish" followers, who regarded Earl as a turncoat.

An ex-traveling-salesman like Huey, Earl Long finished law school and held minor political jobs for several years after his brother became governor in 1928. Embittered at Huey's failure to support him for lieutenant governor in 1931 he ran on an opposition ticket, finishing last.

Later the brothers were reconciled, and at the time Huey Long was killed in the capitol in September, 1935, Earl said he was "one of the leaders of the organization." He sat in on the anxious parleys following the killing, emerged as candidate for lieutenant governor, and was easily elected.

Grocers Strike At Chain Stores

KANSAS CITY, June 22—(P)—The National Retail Grocers Association struck at chain stores and WPA workers who won't pay their bills in resolutions passed at today's closing session of its annual convention.

New York was chosen unanimously for next year's meeting when Representatives from Chicago and Minneapolis withdrew the nomination of their cities. All officers were re-elected.

The chain store resolution asked a congressional investigation of one large grocery organization which retailers charged was "forcing prices down to the producers and creating unemployment through operation of huge self-service markets." The resolution supported action already taken by a group of St. Louis grocers.

The grocers asked federal officials to instruct WPA and relief families behind with their grocery bills to pay or face removal from the aid rolls.

Support in principle was voted for the federal experiment through which relief clients in several cities are purchasing food with stamps.

Other resolutions opposed gross income and gross sales taxes and special occupational taxes for the sale of butter substitutes.

Atlantic Clipper Starts Return

MARSEILLES, France, June 22—(P)—The Atlantic Clipper took off at 10 a. m. (CST) today for New York by way of Lisbon and Horta with only eight of the 18 passengers she took to Europe on her "preview" flight across the Atlantic.

Six already had chosen to stay for a longer visit when a combination of bad weather and a heavy mail load forced the Clipper to leave behind four more of her passengers.

Capt. W. D. Culbertson received weather reports to the Lisbon-Horta leg of the flight at the last minute which caused him to ask the four to stay behind. They will sail later today from Marseille aboard the Italian liner Rex.

Soviets Cold To Pact Proposals

MOSCOW, June 22—(P)—The Soviet Russian government again has received coldly security pact proposals painstakingly formulated by London and Paris. A Soviet communique issued after British Ambassador William Seeds, French Ambassador Paul Emile Naggiar and William Strang special British envoy, visited foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov ironically observed that the newest British-French proposals not only fell short of the mark but were not even new.

"The new 'new' British-French proposals do not represent any improvement over the previous proposals," a foreign office bulletin observed.

and added fees to contract carriers, now exempt.

An amendment to Donnelly's amendment, offered by Sen. Dick B. Dale (D), Richmond, would have placed PSC fees on private carriers of three tons and over, pitched the senate into an hour and a half debate on a technical point of order which finally was withdrawn. From then on all the 13 amendments proposed to the Donnelly plan were adopted.

In the course of the wearing session the senate once became so involved it tentatively approved two different sets of fee classifications for private haulers, restored the "reciprocity" and generally muddled Donnelly's proposal to the point where he finally remarked:

"Mr. President, I don't think this amendment is any credit to this body in the shape it is now in. I ask permission to withdraw it. If it came to a vote I would have to vote against my own amendment now."

With the amendment out of the way, Sen. Allen McReynolds called for a vote on the bill proper and it was beaten.

About $800,000 of the $1,500,000 annual additional revenue sought by the highway department was provided for last week in a senate-passed bill doubling license plate charges on all trucks except those under one ton. That bill now is in the house awaiting action on minor senate amendments.

However, the companion measure which was defeated last night had been intended to bring in the remainder of the needed revenue through the proposed PSC truck fees.

"Gas" Hike To Floor

JEFFERSON CITY, June 22—(P)—The Searcy three-cent gasoline tax—battle scarred veteran of this long session—was approved for passage today by the senate highway committee.

One of the first measures introduced in the assembly, it reached the floor only three days before adjournment—boosted out as a direct result of last night's senate defeat of the bus and truck fee bill.

The house-approved Searcy bill would add a penny to the state gasoline tax and cut in half the price of passenger car license plates. Backers contend it would bring $2,000,000 a year more revenue to the state's highways.

Two three-cent gas tax proposals were defeated by the voters in last year's general election, but neither contained the cut in car tag prices.

Bank Holdup Not Executed

There was considerable excitement among a few residents of Green Ridge Wednesday afternoon in anticipation of a bank robbery, which according to a "tip" was scheduled to have come off at 1 o'clock. According to the "tip" the Farmers and Merchants Bank of Green Ridge was selected for a robbery, after other banks had been considered.

Either because the "tip" leaked out and there were a number of persons in the vicinity of the bank, or it may have been for some other reason, the holdup failed to materialize.

Officers are making an investigation and arrests may be made.

Allotments Out To Purchase Land

JEFFERSON CITY, June 22—(P)—The senate-house conference appropriations committee agreed today to eliminate from the omnibus bill all allotments for purchase of land for state parks.

Items removed included $10,000 for the Wilson Creek Memorial Park in Greene County, $80,000 for the Prairie Lee Lake Park in Jackson County, and $40,000 for the W. H. Phelps Memorial Dairy Farm in Jasper County.

However, the conferees added to the measure $5,000 for development of Enoch H. Crowder Park in Grundy County, created by the 1937 assembly. An allotment of $15,000 for development to the Pershing Memorial Park in Linn County was retained.

King And Queen Loudly Cheered

LONDON, June 22—(P)—London's loyal millions gave a tumultuous welcome to King George and Queen Elizabeth today as they returned to the capital from a six-weeks tour through Canada and to the United States.

The royal couple arrived at Waterloo station at 5:24 p. m. (10:24 a. m. CST), aboard their special train from Southampton and drove slowly in an open carriage through streets lined with wildly cheering subjects.

Yost Passes 50-Year Mark On Globe

Editorial Chief Once Lived Here; Started Work Early

ST. LOUIS, June 22—Casper S. Yost, editor of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat's editorial page, and a former Sedalia, last night celebrated completion of his 50th year with the newspaper.

Yost, for 64 of his 72 years, has worked on and about newspapers, having started his career at the age of 8, setting type for a weekly at Lebanon, Mo. He was born in Sedalia, on July 1, 1864, and was educated in Richland and Lebanon.

His journalistic career began on the Laclede County Leader, at Lebanon, where, at the age of eight, he set type, standing on a chair to reach the type case.

Yost was founder of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, and was president of the organization from 1922 to 1926. In his spare time, he has written half a dozen books.

During the World war, his editorials bespeaking the support of the Wilson administration were a significant factor in maintaining the solidarity of the nation.

At the Golden Anniversary ceremony, E. Lansing Ray, president and publisher of the Globe-Democrat, presented Yost a bound book of letters of felicitation from statesmen, contemporaries in journalism and personal friends.

search hospital in Kansas City. He resides at 218 East Sixth street.

Two Bills Signed By The Governor

JEFFERSON CITY, June 22—(P)—Gov. Lloyd C. Stark signed a bill today designed to improve operation of the much-criticized Jones-Munger tax collection law. Introduced by Rep. Paul Jones (D), Kennett, the measure eliminates the present redemption period allowed after the third sale of property for delinquent taxes, making that sale final. It also permits cities or counties to bid on property to prevent its sale for less than the taxes due. Owners could not buy the property at tax sale without paying all delinquencies and penalties.

Another bill approved by the governor is aimed at "bootlegging of intoxicating liquor into the state to escape taxes. It bans importation of liquor into Missouri until this state gallonage tax is paid unless the shipment is consigned by licensed common or contract carrier to a point beyond the state's border.

"I am proud of the accomplishments of WPA in Missouri," the Murray statement began, "and I feel the money of the people has been well spent. It is the aim of this administration to help those who need help."

"School buildings, thousands of miles of roads and jobs for needy professional people tell the story of the progress of WPA in Missouri."

"If money is allotted to us by the congress for the coming fiscal year we will endeavor to carry out as worthwhile a program as has been carried out for the past four years."

"I sincerely regret the misrepresentation of the program because a program as fine as WPA deserves only the truth spoken about it."

Murray chose WPA over his Kansas City post this week when Mayor Bryce Smith gave him the alternative of quitting one or the other following disclosures of payroll padding in the street cleaning department at Kansas City.

The current Murray-Stark row is just a new outbreak of difficulties which began last year early in the Douglas-Billings supreme court primary race.

Stark charged then that WPA officials were influencing WPA workers to support Judge James V. Billings of Kennett, the Pendergast-backed opponent of Judge James M. Douglas, Stark's appointee.

During that altercation Stark visited once with the president and announced later that the FBI agents were investigating affidavits of voter intimidation in the vast work program. Nothing came of the announcement.

Later a WPA investigator made a check-up in Missouri and exonerated the state WPA administration.

President Roosevelt said recently the income tax base should be broadened by the reduction of existing exemptions, but he expressed doubt that congress would act at this session.

The chamber acted shortly after it had rejected by a tie vote of 38 to 38 a proposal by La Follette to impose stiffer income levies on middle-bracket incomes.

On that vote, Vice President Garner could have broken the tie, but he was not in the chamber.

Missouri because "a program as fine as WPA reserves only truth spoken about it."

Murray made no direct reference to Stark's statement nor to the executive's trip to Washington — a trip that inspired reports the WPA chief would give up his Missouri post.

Instead he turned from the first few direct questions to read from a prepared statement which extolled the accomplishments of WPA in Missouri but said nothing of current developments.

"Flood Of Achievements" "I am proud of the accomplishments of WPA in Missouri," the Murray statement began, "and I feel the money of the people has been well spent. It is the aim of this administration to help those who need help."

Arrested After Auto Collision

John Grant, of southeast of Sedalia, arrested by the police early this morning, today was charged with driving a car while intoxicated, in connection with an accident which he figured in at Second street and Massachusetts avenue.

According to the officers a car driven by Grant collided with a parked car and he then drove away. Both his car and the car which he ran into were badly smashed. The license on the parked car was an out-of-town dealer's tag, and the name of the driver of the automobile was not obtained at the time.

Grant was lodged in the city jail and will probably be taken before Judge C. W. Bente, sitting as ex-officio justice of the peace, this evening.

Seek To Get A Grand Jury

JEFFERSON CITY, June 22—(P)—Robert B. Symptom, Platte county prosecutor, asked the supreme court's aid today in obtaining a Platte county grand jury to "investigate numerous felonies and x x x the official acts of county officers handling public funds."

Symptom asked the supreme court for a writ of mandamus which would require Circuit Judge R. B. Bridgeman to show cause why he has "refused and neglected" to impanel a grand jury. Accompanying Symptom's petition was a request from three inmates of the Platte county jail asking that Judge Bridgeman be required to set a special term of court for their trials.

The supreme court took no immediate action on the petitions. It probably will decide whether to accept jurisdiction of the case at its next conference which possibly will be held early in July.

Symptom said Platte county had not had a grand jury since 1934. He said he had evidence showing the commission of "four grand larceny cases, two perjuries and five homicides" but that only a grand jury investigation could determine the identity of those responsible.

He pleaded that his request to Judge Bridgeman for a grand jury to investigate the felony charges and "to study the public actions" of officials had been denied. The three jail inmates whose filing accompanied Symptom's also said the judge had refused their request for a special term of court last May.

Frank Carter Died On Wednesday Night

Frank Carter died at his home at 313 East Johnson street at 11:30 p. m. Wednesday night. He was sick only two weeks.

He was a member of Quinn Chapel A. M. E. church, and very active in church affairs.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Sallie Carter, nine children of the home address, three stepchildren, and an uncle who is living in the state of California.

The body is at the Alexander Funeral Home and will be taken to the family home at 313 East Johnson street Friday evening.

Funeral services will be held at Quinn Chapel A. M. E. church Saturday afternoon at 2:30 p. m. with the Rev. McHenry VanHoose officiating. Burial will be in Glenwood cemetery.

Crippled Children to Receive Treatment

John Estes, of this city, and two children of George Walz, of Beaman, were taken to the crippled children's hospital in Columbia Tuesday for treatment. One of the children, George Walz, has a broken arm, a double fracture. They were taken to Columbia in the car owned by Wm. R. Courtney, president of the Crippled Children's Society of Pettis county.

Man With Many Homes Held In County Jail

Charles Morton, a man with a variety of addresses, was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Clyde Coppers yesterday afternoon when, according to Coppers, he was found driving on the highway south of Sedalia without any licenses on his car.

Morton told Coppers his home was in Sweet Springs, his driver's license gave his home as La Monte, and the dealer from whom he bought the car said he told him he lived at Norborne, Mo.

Morton was fined $5

by Justice of the Peace J. C. Connor this morning.

Assail Demand Of Mrs. Stewart

JEFFERSON CITY, June 22—(P)—The demand by Rep. Gladys Stewart (R), Douglas county, for a searching investigation of social security administration was denounced as "the most asinine resolution ever introduced in this body" on the house floor today.

Rep. C. P. Turley (D), Carter county, made a slashing reply to Mrs. Stewart's criticism of the state's relief officials. Pointing out the assembly had fixed Saturday noon for adjournment, he asserted:

"It's manifestly impossible to conduct this investigation within the life of this house. If we adopt this resolution two days before quitting and thereby say to the people these alarming conditions exist, it will be one of the most pitiful exhibitions ever presented by a legislature to the people of Missouri."

"I'm not trying to keep the governor or his social security department from being embarrassed. I'm trying to keep the members of this house from being embarrassed."

Mrs. Stewart, the state's only woman legislator, introduced the resolution Tuesday after making a bitter personal attack on social security administrator George I. Haworth two weeks ago.

"The administrator and his staff," said Turley, "have a difficult job. There's no reason even to suspect they are playing politics with the poor people of Douglas county (Mrs. Stewart's home)."

Saw Water Pour Into Squalus

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., June 22.—(P)—From the unemotional stories of the 33 men who escaped the U. S. submarine Squalus after she dived to disaster a month ago, a naval board of inquiry sought today to piece together an accurate account of just what occurred the day the sleek, new submarine plunged to the bottom.

The four surviving officers have testified and several members of the crew were called yesterday.

The ship's cook, William Isaacs of Washington, D. C., related in calm, slow phrases that he saw a soiled sheet of sea water pouring into the vessel through the main engine room ventilating duct as she carried 25 men to their deaths 15 miles off this port.

That testimony was the first direct confirmation of the early theories for the cause of the disaster—failure of air induction valves to close and keep out sea water.

Repeating that he heard a sound like air escaping as he stood in a small compartment off the after battery compartment as the Squalus executed her tragic dive, Isaacs testified:

"I stuck my head from the Galley. Salt water splashed in my face. * * * I looked through the door's eye port. I saw a solid sheet of water pouring down from the engine room opening of the main engine induction duct. Water was coming out of ventilator openings and in water knee deep I waded forward to the un-flooded control room as the ship started to up-angle by the nose."

He was one of the last five men through the bulkhead before Lloyd Maness slammed the door.

Fined for Reckless Driving

Hudson Pursley arrested by Special Officer Chambers at Liberty park for reckless driving, appeared before Judge C. W. Bente in police court this morning and was fined $5.

Case Is Continued

The case of George E. Gibbs charged with not having a merchant's license, was continued this morning by Judge C. W. Bente. It will be set later.

Stuffed Frankfurters

(10 servings))

Ten frankfurters, about 5 inches long, 10 slices bacon. For stuffing: 1 can pork and beans, 2 tablespoons India relish or pickle relish, 2 tablespoons chili sauce. Put beans in mixing bowl and mash slightly. Then mix with relish. Split the frankfurters lengthwise, leaving one side uncut. Open and fill with stuffing. Close and wrap each frankfurter in a slice of bacon and fasten with toothpick. Put in baking pan and bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) for about 25 minutes.

Glazed Ham and Bean Rolls

(8 servings)

Eight thin slices ham, 1½ teaspoons prepared mustard, 1 can pork and beans. Sauce for glazing: 3 tablespoons dark brown sugar, 3 tablespoons hot water.

Spread the slices of ham with prepared mustard. Empty beans into bowl and mash slightly, only enough so that beans will hold together when spread on ham. Place 1 spoonful of beans on each slice of ham and roll. Place slice of ham in baking pan. Use a 9-inch square pan. Baste with brown sugar syrup just before placing in oven and baste twice again during baking. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) for about 25 minutes.

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST: Baked apples, bacon and eggs, whole-wheat toast, jelly, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Corn and spinach soufflé, melba toast, cherries, cookies, tea, milk.

DINNER: Pork chops, cream gravy, mashed potatoes, grilled tomatoes, lettuce salad, peaches and cream, lady fingers, coffee, milk.

Evaporated Milk Sherbet

(Made in mechanical refrigerator)

1 package Kool-Aid, any flavor

1 can evaporated milk (tall)

1 cup sugar

½ cup water

1 Place can of evaporated milk in freezing unit and chill one hour.

2 Dissolve sugar and Kool-Aid thoroughly in the water.

3 Place chilled evaporated milk in cold mixing bowl and whip with egg beater until about three times in volume.

4 Then add the Kool-Aid mixture and fold in well; place quickly in freezing tray and freeze at coldest temperature. Do not disturb after it starts to freeze, or it will be less fluffy.

Quaker Recipes On Package Build Repeat Sales Dealers Report

The recipes which appear on every package of Quaker Macaroni, Spaghetti, or Egg Noodles are effective builders of repeat sales, reports from dealers show. Each package incorporates (1) recipes, and five different packages are in use constantly, numbered A. B. C. D. and E. The housewife is reminded to look for the other four sets of recipes, and according to dealers interviewed, the idea has caught hold with a large percentage of housewives in this city. Attractive wire-hangers are supplied to remind shoppers of this menu planning help. Recipes are changed periodically, and the company states that the scheme has been so successful that it will be continued indefinitely. Calling the attention of housewives to this help in planning a variety of meals adds appreciably to macaroni sales, dealers state.

SUNDAY DINNER Suggestions

By CORA ANTHONY
Director of A&P Kitchen

CROP saving rains have fallen on the Northeastern seaboard, promising better berries and other truck crops. The West coast is shipping sweet cherries, plums, melons, apricots, figs, seedless grapes and early pears. Sour cherries and gooseberries are available. Georgia freestone peaches are now in market. These are easy to peel and slice or to eat out of hand.

All meats including spring lamb are now reasonable. Poultry prices continue low. Eggs and butter are slightly higher but both are still excellent values.

New potatoes are plentiful and reasonable. Green beans, spinach and salad greens are inexpensive and abundant.

To Whip Evaporated Milk

The secret of whipping evaporated milk successfully is thorough chilling. Pour milk into the freezing tray of a mechanical refrigerator or put the can itself into the freezing compartment. When it is thoroughly chilled, whip with a cold beater in a well chilled bowl.

Raising a Family

"Do As I Say, Not As I Do," Is Wrong Way To Raise Child
By Olive Roberts Wharton

A boy of thirteen was in disgrace. He had answered his father back, when corrected about his table manners, saying "Maybe I do shovel my food in too fast but I don't growl all the time at what I get to eat." Which was heresy to say the least.

"Why, you young scamp," roared Father. "I have a notion to take your hide for that. What do you mean?"

"Now, now," begged Mother, "it's all right. Mack didn't mean a thing." But she knew better than that. The boy had eyes and ears to know that his dad was imperfect, too. Nobody dared to say a word to the testy-tempered man, when he left the bathroom floor swimming, or turned off Mother's radio music without apology to hear a ball game. But let Mother cook the steak too long, hang a coat in the wrong place or put his book back in the book case and he made a fuss.

The rest of the meal passed in silence. But the very air was charged.

Mack went to his father after dinner and said, "I apologize, Dad. I didn't mean to be impudent. I am sorry."

Father looked at this young string-bean of his, so recently riding piggyback on his shoulders and playing bear on the floor that it seemed like yesterday, and realized that something had happened to both of them.

He drew the lad to him and said, "Let's take a walk, Mack. I want you to tell me what the trouble is, as well as you can. Maybe I can understand better than you can talk, but go ahead and say it."

Older People Are Problems, Too

"That was all I meant," said the yearling. "Sometimes I am not so good, and sometimes you are not so good either. But I get heck and so does Mother and so does brother sometimes. But you see—"

"Yes, I see. I am as much of a problem to you as you are to me, but I won't take telling. I guess all older people are problems of one kind or another, but they won't acknowledge it. However, I had to take it from my dad, and a little roughing up won't hurt you, either."

"But, you're right. Let's both think it over."

A map, fitted to a roller that is attached to the steering wheel, with about two inches of the map's surface exposed to the driver's attention, is the latest safety device offered to the traveler who is touring strange roads.

During 1938 state gasoline taxes cost the American motorists $766,853,000. The five states leading were New York, Pennsylvania, California, Ohio and Texas. New York collected $66,132,000.

Notice of Submission of Ordinance No. 3357 to Voters for Their Approval or Disapproval at a Special Franchise Election to Be Held in Sedalia, Missouri on July 11, 1939.

Notice is hereby given to qualified voters of the City of Sedalia, Missouri, that at a special franchise election to be held in the City of Sedalia on Tuesday, July 11, 1939, Ordinance No. 3357, which has been passed by the Council of the City of Sedalia and approved by the mayor thereof, will be submitted to the qualified voters at said election, to determine whether the qualified voters voting at said election desire to approve or disapprove said ordinance. The body of said ordinance (excepting only Section 12 designating judges and clerks of election) is in words and figures as follows:

"BE IT ORDAINED by the Council of the City of Sedalia, Missouri, as follows:

"Section 1. If, at a special franchise election to be held on Tuesday, July 11th, 1939, a majority of the qualified voters of the City of Sedalia, voting at said election, vote in the affirmative on the proposition submitted as hereinafter provided for, and if, within ten days after said election, the City Light & Traction Company shall file with the City Clerk its written acceptance of this ordinance,

"Any qualified voter desiring to vote in favor of adopting this ordinance shall draw a line through the word 'NO' on said ballot, and any qualified voter desiring to vote against the adoption of this ordinance shall draw a line through the word 'YES' on said ballot.

"Section 8. Said election shall be conducted and the result ascertained as is provided by law for special franchise elections in said City.

"Section 9. The City Light & Traction Company shall pay all expenses of publishing the notices and of printing the ballots hereinabove provided for.

"Section 10. The City Clerk is hereby directed to prepare and cause to be printed ballots as herein provided, and to prepare or procure the necessary poll books and tally sheets to be used at said election, and shall cause the same to be delivered to the Judges of said election.

"Section 11. The polling places for said election shall be as follows:

"(A) All of the election precincts in the First Ward of the City of Sedalia, Missouri, are hereby combined in one precinct or election district for the purpose of said special election, and FIRE ENGINE HOUSE NO. 2 in said First Ward is hereby designated as the polling place in the First Ward.

"(B) All of the election precincts in the Second Ward of the City of Sedalia, Missouri, are hereby combined in one precinct or election district for the purpose of said special election, and JEFFERSON SCHOOL BUILDING, in said Second Ward is hereby designated as the polling place in the Second Ward.

"(C) All of the election precincts in the Third Ward of the City of Sedalia, Missouri, are hereby combined in one precinct or election district for the purpose of said special election, and WASHINGTON SCHOOL BUILDING, in said Third Ward is hereby designated as the polling place in the Third Ward.

"(D) All of the election precincts in the Fourth Ward of the City of Sedalia, Missouri, are hereby combined in one precinct or election district for the purpose of said special election, and BROADWAY SCHOOL BUILDING, in said Fourth Ward is hereby designated as the polling place in the Fourth Ward.

"Provided: that nothing herein shall be deemed to alter the existing precincts and election districts in the City of Sedalia, Missouri for the purpose of any other or different election than the aforesaid special franchise election to be held in said city on the 11th day of July, 1939.

Section 12 designates, names and appoints judges and clerks of said election.

"Section 13. This ordinance shall be in full force and effect from and after its passage and approval.

"READ THE THIRD TIME AND PASSED THIS 19th day of June, 1939."

The polls in said election will be kept open from and between the hours of six o'clock A. M. and sunset.

All persons residing in the City of Sedalia and who are legal voters therein are entitled to vote at said election.

Given under my hand and the seal of said City this 20th day of June, 1939.

(Seal) JAMES M. BAILEY, City Clerk.
